The Industry's Guide to Billing

To help medical professionals, particularly those new to private practice, Healthcode has put together medical billing best practice guidelines. The Industry's Guide to Billing encourages medical professionals to bill to a standard using a set of common information to ensure the payor has sufficient information to settle the invoice on receipt.

- About the Invoice
- About You
- About the Patient
- About the Treatment

"At VitalityHealth we are committed to making invoice submission as simple as possible. Healthcode's billing and validation tools provide a safe and efficient way to submit your invoices with confidence that you have included all the information we need to assess and settle your bills quickly, while also saving you the time and cost of paper administration."

Luke Mcclaran Consultant Relationship Manager, VitalityHealth

"Aviva actively encourage our registered Healthcare professionals to use Healthcode and enjoy the benefits of electronic billing, bringing simplicity and clarity to the process and ultimately improving cash flow with faster payments."

Caroline Whillock

Billing Guidelines

To ensure the payment process is seamless, the following key information should be included on a private medical invoice:

About the Invoice

- Invoice number
- Invoice date

About You

- Full name
- Provider number or professional number
- Specialty
- Billing address
- Payment details

About the Patient

- Patient name
- Date of birth
- Insurance company or paying organisation
- Patient policy number if insured
- Patient address
- Diagnosis code and description
- If you are not the lead consultant, you will need to provide the name of the consultant in charge of the overall patient care including their provider / professional number.

About the Treatment

The following information is required for each treatment being invoiced:

- The type of care delivered e.g. in-patient, out-patient, day case, consulting room or other
- Date of treatment
- Service delivered
- Procedure code and description if applicable
- Total amount

The above is the industry standard required for private medical billing. However, some insurers may not require diagnosis information.

To assist you, we have produced two medical billing templates available for you to download:

- Invoice template for organisations
- Invoice template for billing direct to the patient
